The Bowl and Everything That Went in It
By Liberty _____

Once upon a time there was a bowl that was sad.
With tears on his face, he wailed, "What am I going to do?"

Then he had an idea. "I'll call the spoon. Maybe he can help."
The spoon came, and he had an idea. "We can make a cake together."

They called the ingredients one by one, but there was a problem. Who would go first?
They decided that the flour went in first. Then sugar, butter, milk, baking powder, salt, vanilla and eggs.

But there was another problem. All the mixing was making the spoon tired, so they had to take a break.

They noticed they would need a pan, so the spoon got out of the bowl and got the pan.

The spoon preheated the oven to 350 degrees. They baked the cake for 35 minutes. Now they just had to wait.

When it was time to come out, the bowl and spoon pulled out the pan from the oven.
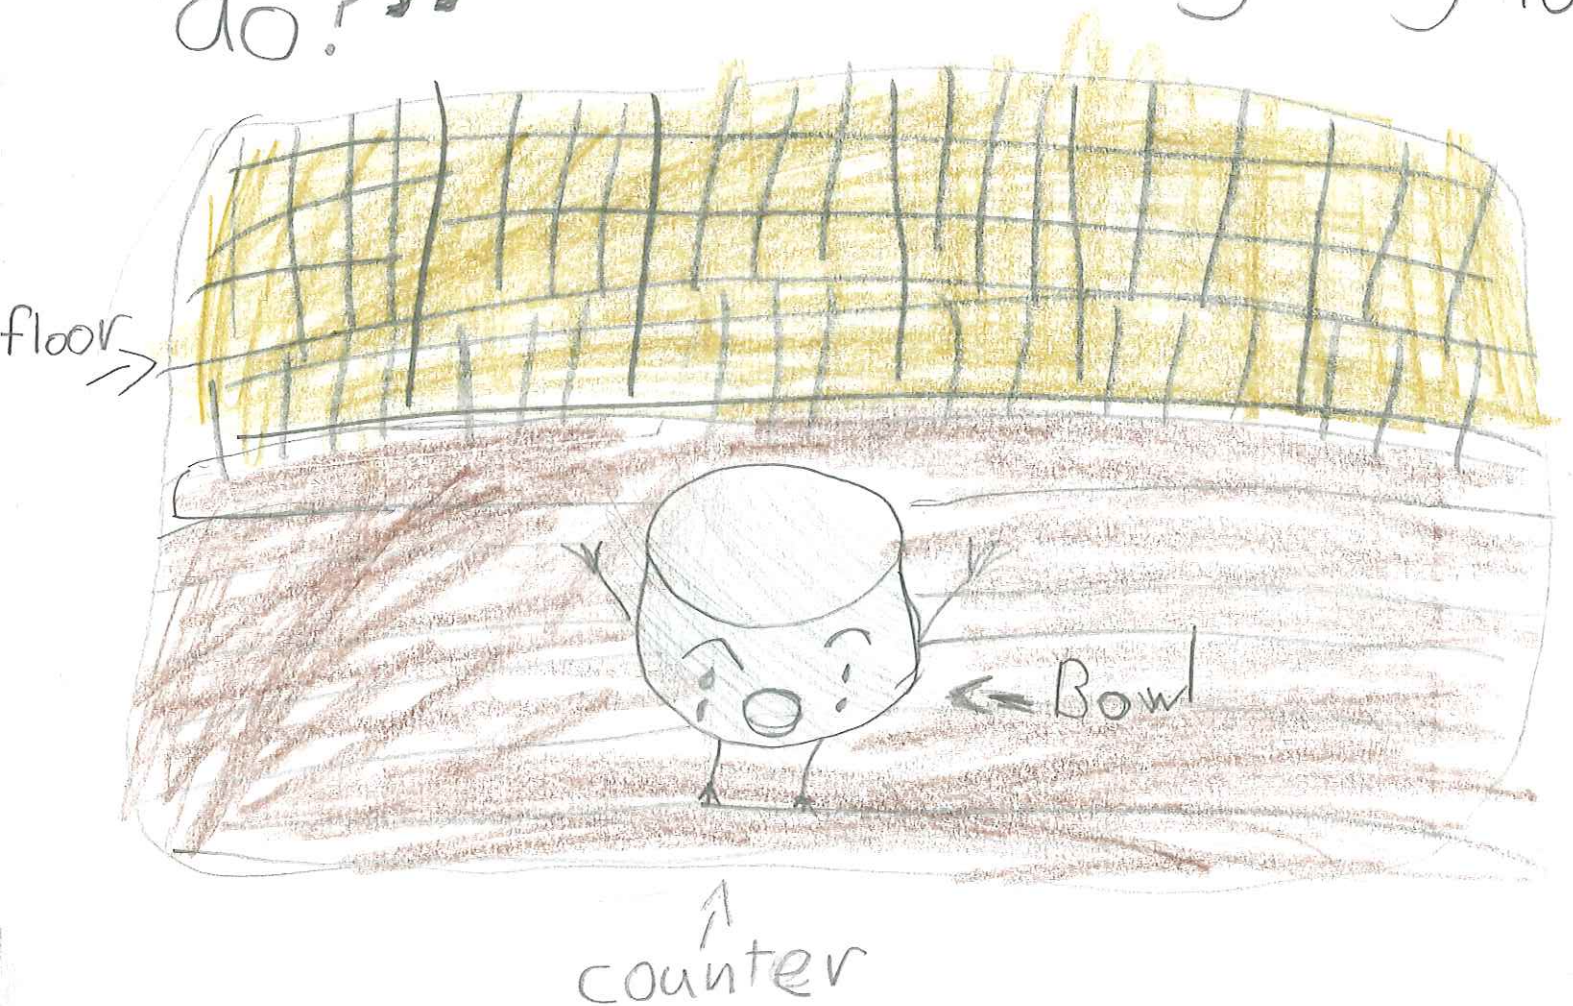

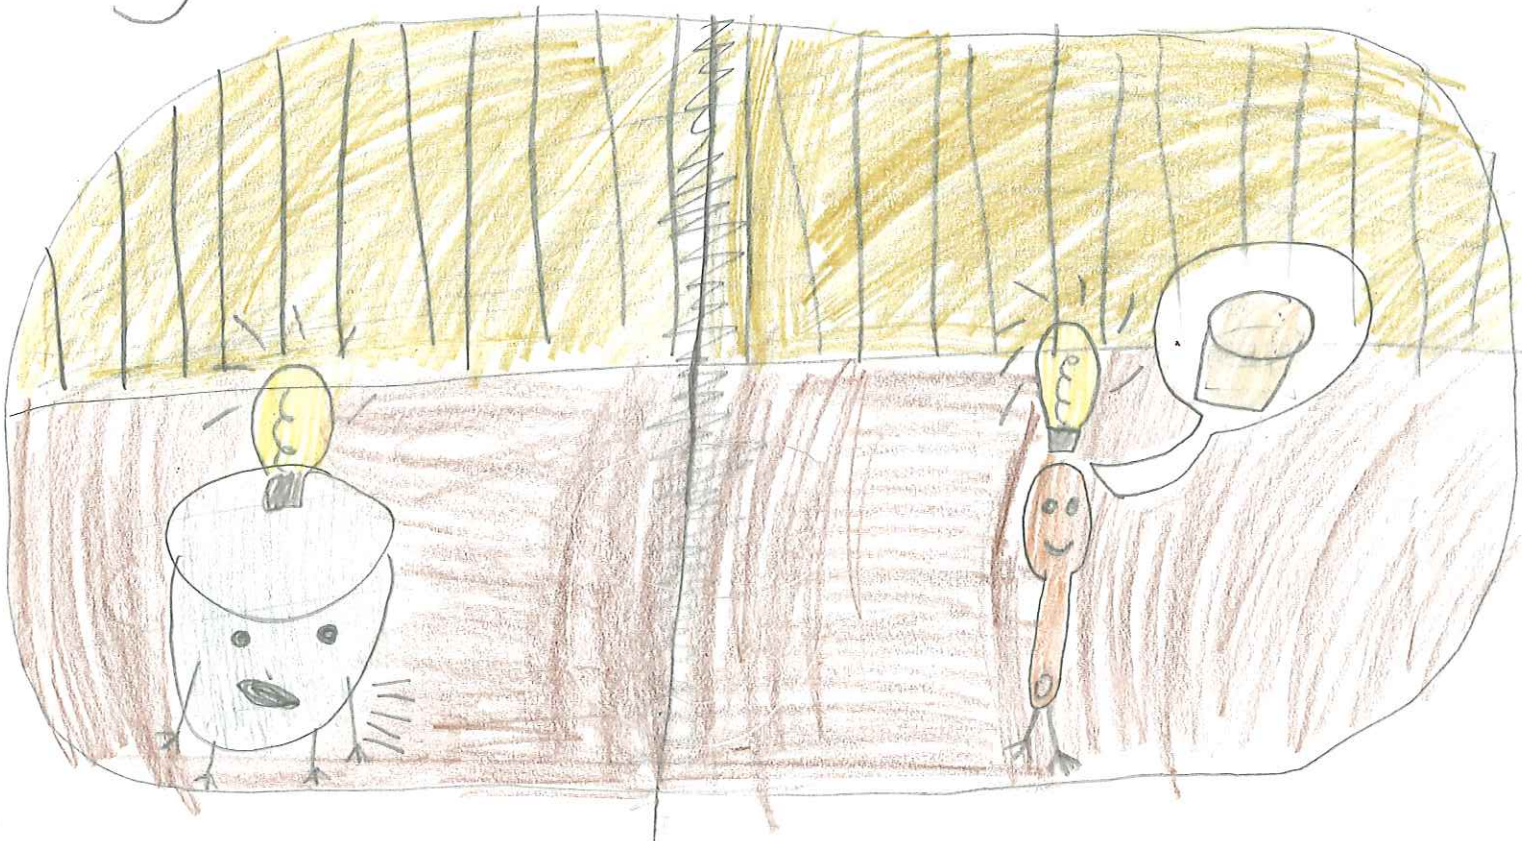

After all that work, they got a big appetite, so they had a piece of cake. The bowl was happy because he hadn't gotten used in a long time.

The End.
