A big palomino horse named Tixie and her good bunny friend named Seashell set off on an adventure to Alaska. They wanted to get a Yukon wolf puppy to raise as a guard dog.

They stopped their boat to have granola bars for a midnight snack. The sparkly stars shined so bright on the water.

They used bullets with sleep stuff in them to keep all the big wolves asleep. Once they grabbed a puppy that was old enough to leave its mom they put it in a cage. They took the bullets out of the big wolves and put bandaids on until they woke up. Tixie and Seashell had to leave Alaska before the wolves woke up.

About 1 year later Tixie and Seashell brought their Yukon wolf pup, PomPom, back to visit her family.

PomPom tells them about her good friends and how she loves keeping them safe.

After PomPom ends her visit in Alaska with her pack, she heads home to stay with Tixie and Seashell where they live happily ever after.
