

The tiny person who
wanted to fly

Saksheet Ghimire

Once upon a time there was a tiny person.
He found it very hard to walk. So he wanted to fly. He thought he might learn from birds.

②

One day he went in a rook's nest. There was only a rook's chick. He asked the chick if he knew how to fly. The chick said "No but I know a swan that lives by the lake he can teach us how to fly." So they went.

But there was only a swan's chick in the nest. He said he did not know how to fly.
Then they saw a chicken waddle by. They asked the chicken the same question.

She said "chickens do not fly. But you can teach my chick to fly," mistaking them
for adults.

The chicks and tiny person tried all sorts of ways to get in the air. Once they tried a lever. But that only got the tiny person in the air for a few seconds and he fell to the ground.
