Fight the Power: How Hip Hop Changed the World

Beginning January 31, 8 pm

The four-part series includes first-hand accounts from some of rap's most integral players and deconstructs the origins of this bold and revolutionary art form through the voices of those who were there at the start.

Early Learning Community Engagement

How long have you worked for Nine PBS? Since January 2021 and I have been in my current position since August 2022.

Briefly, what is your responsibility?

I manage the Wittcoff Fellows. We go into communities with a deficit in educational resources and connect them to Nine PBS learning media and hands-on resources.

What show(s) on Nine PBS are you watching or recommending? The Great American Recipe, Beyond the Baton: A Conductor's Journey (The Thomas Wilkins Story), and Becoming Trauma Responsive.

What do you enjoy doing when you're not at work?

I enjoy apps where I am playing against the game and I am dedicated to my beautiful and oh-so spoiled Shih Tzu, Prince.

Dear Friends,

Happy New Year! What better way to kick off a new year than with nine (a special number) season premieres in January! And there's so much more happening at Nine PBS.

The first big season premiere is the launch of the 20th season of Living St. Louis—the place to find stories by, for, and about our region. Tune in or stream and you'll see a new look, new faces, and stories that help us appreciate the treasures in our community.

Have you heard about Drawn In? Our locally produced animated series aims to improve literacy. You can watch episodes and read all four Drawn In comic books at drawnin.org, where you will also find plenty of tips for grown-ups to help kids get the most out of this animated adventure initiative and subscribe to the Drawn In YouTube channel for another way to watch.

I'm ready for new seasons of the warm-hearted All Creatures Great and Small, the intriguing Miss Scarlet and the Duke, Vienna Blood, and other member favorites like Antiques Roadshow, Finding Your Roots, American Experience, American Masters, and America's Test Kitchen. All are new in January!

Plus, if you have ever watched Finding Your Roots and wished your ancestors could be revealed to you, you are in luck! Finding Your Roots is holding an open casting call for a viewer to appear in its 10th season! See page 7 for more information about how you can apply for this exciting opportunity.

And we're in the community. On January 22 we're screening clips of The U.S. and the Holocaust at the newly renovated St. Louis Kaplan Feldman Holocaust Museum; go to ninepbs. org/events to register. The three-part docuseries is having its second run on Nine PBS beginning January 5. You can watch it on your television or stream it live or on your schedule.

Here's to a 2023 where all in our region flourish!

This Is Living St. Louis

As it begins its 20th season, Living St. Louis is expanding across multiple platforms to reinforce Nine PBS's role as the place to find stories made by, for, and about our region.

On January 9, you will notice some fresh takes during the 20th season premiere. Portions of the show will be recorded at Nine PBS and will include one-on-one conversations with community members and regular segments focusing on history or early learning one week and programming or pop culture the next.

The show's longevity says a lot about the people of St. Louis, says Anne-Marie Berger, Living St. Louis producer and senior director of content at Nine PBS. "Stories about St. Louis, its history, and what makes it interesting and unique, but also about the challenges it faces, are so popular and continue to endure," she says.

The multicolored line running through the new logo is meant to represent the diverse spectrum of content that Living St. Louis covers.

The goal of Living St. Louis is for viewers to gain new perspectives that help strengthen our community and, ultimately, to connect us to one another. Plus, you will see plenty of content that celebrates what makes St. Louis unique.

"I think hearing someone's story is what connects people. Hearing different backgrounds and different challenges. It really strengthens the understanding and the importance of being in a community," says Brooke Butler, the show's newest producer.

"I want people to trust their stories with us. We don't take that for granted."

—Anne-Marie Berger

The multicolored line running through the new Living St. Louis logo is meant to represent the diverse spectrum of content that Living St. Louis covers and the myriad stories that make up the region.

Story leads can come from anywhere; people call, email, or stop producers on the street with ideas. "We will only run out of stories when we have knocked on the last door," says Jim Kirchherr, executive producer.

A new online story suggestion form can be found at ninepbs.org/lsl.

"A woman came up to me and said, 'I just moved here from Omaha, and I've learned so much about my new city. I watch every week and I've gone back into your archives on your website and watched all the old shows," he says. The archives can be found at ninepbs.org /livingstlouis and on YouTube.

"I like doing stories about everyday things that you otherwise wouldn't know were happening or about people out there making our community go round," says Anne-Marie. "I want people to trust their stories with us. We don't take that for granted."

Jim is motivated by this same kind of curiosity, as are all the show's producers. Like Anne-Marie, he has been with the show since day one. Living St. Louis is "about people who are still curious, no matter what age they are, about the place they live."

Ruth Ezell, senior producer, echoes the impact the show has had. "The fact that we're beginning our 20th astounds me. Very often I'll get stopped by a fan and they'll say, 'That was so interesting. I've lived here my whole life and I didn't know about that," she says.

What began as a traditional television magazine program has evolved into the local anchor program at Nine PBS for sharing insights into our community through a number of platforms, including short videos, blogs, social media, and, of course, the weekly television program.

The digital spaces enhance our responsiveness to the community and provide engaging, and sometimes viral, digital-first content. You can consume Living St. Louis content on Facebook, YouTube, ninepbs.org, the PBS app, and our latest platform entry—TikTok, which has 12,000 followers as of December 2022.

Since launching in 2004, Living St. Louis has captured the stories of the people, places, and organizations that make our region consequential and complex, receiving numerous Mid-America Emmy Awards along the way. It will continue to profile personalities, the arts community, the environment, and the region's past, present, and future, but it will also dive into more challenging topics in Living St. Louis specials.

"St. Louis doesn't always give itself credit for being interesting, but it has a rich history," says Jim. "It has a rich presence...and I think when people see the stories we do, they get that."

Watch live Mondays at 7 pm or stream anytime on the PBS app.

Nawaz and Bennett Named Co-Anchors

Nawaz and Bennett succeed Judy Woodruff, who has solo-anchored PBS's nightly news broadcast since 2016. Judy left the program in December 2022 to work on Judy Woodruff Presents: America at a Crossroads in the coming years.

Bennett has reported from the White House under three presidents and has covered five presidential elections. He joined NewsHour in 2022 from NBC News, where he was a White House correspondent and substitute anchor for MSNBC.

Nawaz, who has received Peabody Awards for her reporting at NewsHour on January 6, 2021, and global plastic pollution, has served as NewsHour's primary substitute anchor since she joined the NewsHour in 2018. She previously was an anchor and correspondent at ABC News, anchoring breaking news coverage and leading the network's livestream coverage of the 2016 presidential election.

Black Stories in Celebration of Black History

You're Invited!

In partnership with the St. Louis Kaplan Feldman Holocaust Museum, Nine PBS will host a screening of clips from the recent The U.S. and the Holocaust, a film by Ken Burns, Lynn Novick, and Sarah Botstein, at the newly renovated and expanded museum. A panel discussion will follow.

The event is Sunday, January 22, 2 pm. It is free to attend, but registration is required at ninepbs.org/events.

Casting Call for Finding Your Roots

Have you ever wished your story could be told on Finding Your Roots? Now it can! In response to comments from fans asking for a noncelebrity guest to be featured in the series, Finding Your Roots will be casting a viewer for Season 10 of the long-running PBS series. The nationwide casting call began in November and will conclude on or around January 27, 2023.

The series is looking for anyone with a "family mystery" that the team from Finding Your Roots can help solve! The chosen viewer will be announced in the summer of 2023, and will appear on Season 10, which is expected to premiere in early 2024.

Apply at findingyourrootscasting.com. Season 9 premieres January 3, 7 pm.

Historical Documentary and Partnership Win Emmys

The Nine PBS team and partners took home four Mid-America Emmy® Awards on Saturday, October 29, at the Mid-America National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences annual gala.

To top off a terrific night, Nine PBS Executive Producer Jim Kirchherr was inducted into the Silver Circle, which honors those who have made significant contributions to TV for 25 years or more. Congratulations to Jim and all the nominees and winners!

Work It Out Wombats!

The new PBS KIDS animated preschool series Work It Out Wombats! follows a playful trio of marsupial siblings—Malik, Zadie and Zeke—who live with their grandmother in a fantastical treehouse apartment complex called the Treeborhood. In each story, the wombats model computational thinking skills for preschoolers—a way of thinking that enables them to solve problems, express themselves, and accomplish tasks using the practices, processes, and ideas at the core of computer science.

• The series will debut February 6.

City Island

A new series of animated digital shorts for early elementary school-aged children began December 26 on Nine PBS KIDS. The new shorts will feature a civics curriculum, highlighting topics like cooperation, conflict resolution, and city planning, helping to foster young viewers' understanding of how cities and communities work. Other shorts include those from Arthur, Odd Squad, Xavier, Riddle and the Secret Museum, Jelly, Ben & Pogo, Elinor Wonders Why, and Molly of Denali.

A First Look at Sanditon, Season 3

Sanditon, the fan-favorite drama inspired by Jane Austen's final, unfinished novel, will return for Season 3 in March 2023.

Feature Films on Nine PBS

Enjoy classic films, interruption-free, on Saturday nights at 9 pm, with an encore broadcast at 10 pm on Sunday nights. Here are some of the upcoming films.

Dirty Rotten Scoundrels (1988)

It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World (1963)

Some Like it Hot (1959)

Spaceballs (1987)

The Alamo (1960)

The King's Speech (2010)

Nine PBS Edcamp

To meet the high demand for educator-led professional development, Nine PBS hosted PBS KIDS Edcamp twice in 2022. The first Nine PBS Edcamp took place in fall 2018 and has returned annually at the request of area educators. It is now an established offering led by a Curriculum Design Manager Dr. Arionna Ralleigh.

97%

of attendees could imagine themselves using the ideas and resources learned at Edcamp with young learners.

87%

of attendees felt their professional development needs were met.

Over the past two events, one in spring and one in fall, 209 teachers joined in the conversation, impacting at least 3,100 early learners.

"Edcamp...gives teachers and educators the opportunity to come together, share ideas, talk about things that may have been going on in their classroom, and bounce ideas off one another."

—2022 Edcamp Participant

Major support provided in part by PNC Grow Up Great, Norman J. Stupp Foundation, and Trio Foundation of Saint Louis.

Raymond H. Wittcoff Fellowship: Year Two

In 2022, the Raymond H. Wittcoff Fellowship expanded. In addition to the focus on North St. Louis, North St. Louis County, and East St. Louis, two additional fellows focused their energy on supporting rural communities and early educators in the St. Louis region. In addition, Nine PBS hired Gina Watkins, from the inaugural cohort of fellows, as the full-time Early Learning Community Engagement Manager. The position is a steadfast touchpoint between the community and the fellows.

Channel 9.3 and Spectrum 185

January programming on Nine PBS World focuses on themes of economic inequality.

American ReFramed: For the Love of Rutland

In 2016 the mayor of Rutland, VT, an overwhelmingly white town struggling with income inequality, the opioid epidemic, and political polarization, devised a plan to bring 100 Syrian refugees to invigorate his community. What followed was a deluge of deeply partisan rancor that threatened to split the small New England town in two.

The King's Speech

The 2010 film won the Academy Award for Best Picture and its lead actor, Colin Firth, won for Best Actor. England's Prince Albert (Colin Firth) must ascend the throne as King George VI, but he has a speech impediment. His wife, Elizabeth (Helena Bonham Carter), hires Lionel Logue (Geoffrey Rush), an Australian actor and speech therapist, to help him overcome his stammer. An extraordinary friendship develops between the two men, as Loque uses unconventional means to teach the monarch how to speak with confidence.

The $10 billion telescope, known as JWST, pushes the limits of engineering with its massive, gold-covered mirror measuring 21 feet in diameter and tennis court-sized sunshield. Launched in December 2021, it has traveled to its permanent vantage point a million miles from Earth—3,000 times farther from home than the Hubble Space Telescope.
