Dear Friends,

Telling important stories, like what led to the unrest in Ferguson 10 years ago, is central to our work and brings together the four core values that guide us: community, trust, equity, and learning.

Since our founding almost 70 years ago, we have been connected to our community. We were one of the first public media organizations in the country to be licensed to a community.

That's why our local series and specials matter. We hold a mirror to our world and challenge everyone to change the narrative about our community.

Our belief is that for our community to thrive, everyone must thrive, that's why we've been covering the aftermath of Michael Brown's fatal shooting. Our latest special, Ferguson 10 Years Later, A Living St. Louis Special, is a testament to the power of community and the hope and real work required for change. The broadcast premiere is August 5 at 7 pm or stream it on the PBS App.

This new special is a companion to our 2014 Ferguson special. An encore broadcast of Ferguson: A Special Report airs July 29 at 7 pm and is now streaming.

We're covering this chapter of Ferguson's story on air, online, in the community, and with a special episode of Listen, St. Louis with Carol Daniel. We'll be sharing Living St. Louis stories about Ferguson and posting content to our social media platforms that give additional context and a look behind the scenes. Make sure you follow us on YouTube, Facebook, Instagram, X, and TikTok to engage in the conversation of how to help our region flourish.

Best,

Amy Shaw

President and CEO

Fans of Donnybrook came out for Donnybash at the Sheldon Concert Hall on April 11 to hear live takes on local affairs, mingle with the panelist, and enjoy drinks, appetizers, and desserts.

Nine PBS hosted the national Ready to Learn conference May 1–2, uniting 40 PBS stations, partners, and representatives from PBS and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Ready to Learn is a vital component of PBS's commitment to fostering early learning nationwide.

Samantha Brown was in town in May filming episodes in St. Louis for her Places to Love series. The series currently airs Sundays at 6:30 pm, streaming on the PBS App.

The Making of NOVA's Super Bridge

In a November 1997 episode, NOVA captured the challenges of rebuilding the Clark Bridge and the Nine PBS team (pictured with cameras) was there to produce this special on the making of the episode. The bridge is a cable-stayed bridge across the Mississippi River between West Alton, MO, and Alton, IL. Named after explorer William Clark, like the bridge it replaced, the bridge opened in 1994. It carries U.S. Route 67 across the river. It is the northernmost river crossing in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

🔔 You can watch the rebroadcast on Monday, July 22, at 7 pm, and Tuesday, July 23, at 1 pm, or stream it anytime.

First Place for Power of the Pitch

The Missouri Broadcasters Association presented awards on June 1 during its annual convention. Nine PBS was awarded first place in the Best Special Program—Public Affairs for Power of the Pitch, first broadcast in September 2023 and now streaming on the PBS App. Executive Producer Anne-Marie Berger and Producer Veronica Mohesky were there to accept the award. Power of the Pitch captures the economic vitality of our city, showing how professional sports can renew community spirit and transform disinvested neighborhoods, with a focus on the new CityPark soccer stadium.

In Memoriam

Co-founder and longtime co-anchor of the PBS News Hour Robert MacNeil passed away April 12, 2024, at the age of 93. MacNeil co-founded the MacNeil/Lehrer Report, the predecessor of the PBS News Hour, alongside the late Jim Lehrer in 1975, out of their 1973 coverage of the Senate Watergate Hearings on PBS.

70th Birthday Events

Over the past seven decades, our region has generously invested time, talent, and resources into our success and impact. We hope you will join us to help celebrate this milestone year.

Nine PBS was built by and for St. Louis. Our work is driven by our core purpose: to magnify and deepen understanding of our community to help our region flourish. As we look to the future, Nine PBS remains committed to providing programming and services that make the region better and brighter for all.

Stories of Resilience, Hope, and Progress

“It’s important for our community to understand where we’ve been, how far we’ve come, and how we’re moving forward.”

—Aja Williams,
vice president and chief content officer

Nine PBS is proud to tell local stories that represent the people and issues that matter to the St. Louis region. Year after year, Nine PBS, and public media, has ranked number one as a trustworthy institution. That trust enables us to better address issues around equity. This August, we present another chapter in our coverage of the fatal shooting of Michael Brown.

Ferguson 10 Years Later content explores the power of community across our online and on-air platforms. We met and spoke with community members, businesses, and leaders to inform our stories and understand Ferguson and our community’s evolution.

“It’s important for our community to understand where we’ve been, how far we’ve come, and how we’re moving forward,” said Vice President and Chief Content Officer Aja Williams. “We have a responsibility to bring better understanding and awareness to continue to move toward changing our community.”

Through a combination of interviews, archival footage, and visual storytelling, Ferguson 10 Years Later paints a picture of Ferguson’s and our region’s transformation.

The Living St. Louis special showcases the community’s journey toward healing and progress, focusing on key areas such as economic revitalization, police-community relations, education, youth empowerment, and cultural expression.

We talked with Black-owned businesses about economic resilience and empowerment within the community and met the people and organizations who were transformed by what happened in Ferguson.

A group of young social activists, who were in elementary school at the time of the uprising, talk about how those events shaped their perception of the St. Louis community and how it has motivated their work in advocating for justice and equality.

Yet the positive stories around Ferguson should not detract from acknowledging the impact of individual and collective trauma that still resides in the community.

We have been covering the aftermath of that fateful day in Ferguson from the beginning. Nine PBS produced two specials and is rebroadcasting Ferguson: A Special Report 2014, hosted by Jim Kirchherr. We held public screenings around national productions. We will continue coverage on ninepbs.org/ferguson, Living St. Louis digital shorts, blogs, and the Listen, St. Louis podcast.

- 📺 Ferguson 10 Years Later: A Living St. Louis Special* broadcast premiere: August 5 at 7 pm, with a primetime encore Thursday, August 8, at 7:30 pm. Streaming on the PBS App and at ninepbs.org.
- 📺 Ferguson: A Special Report*, an encore broadcast from 2014, airs July 29, 7 pm, and Sunday, August 4, 12 pm. Streaming on the PBS App and at ninepbs.org.

Support for Ferguson 10 Years Later is provided in part by the Betsy & Thomas O. Patterson Foundation.

Host Carol Daniel will tape a special edition of her podcast in front of a live studio audience. Stream it on Nine PBS's YouTube channel from 7:30-8:30 pm.

Nine PBS Hosts National Ready to Learn Conference

“You helped us plan and orchestrate an incredibly rich professional learning experience that was enjoyed by everyone, with no special event stone left unturned. Congratulations and thank you for welcoming us with open arms.”

—Pam Johnson,
executive director,
Ready to Learn

In May, Nine PBS spearheaded the Ready to Learn conference, uniting 40 PBS stations, partnering organizations, and representatives from PBS and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB). Ready to Learn, a collaboration between the U.S. Department of Education and PBS, stands as a vital component of PBS's commitment to fostering early learning nationwide.

Through an innovative community engagement model, PBS and partnering stations provide research-driven content, curriculum, and tools, rooted in our beloved on-air programming, to bolster children, families, and educators in their early childhood education endeavors.

The national Ready to Learn conference took place May 1–2 at Nine PBS. Alongside hosting, the Nine PBS Early Learning team was recognized for a family board game that Parent Engagement Manager Fatama Moorer codesigned in collaboration with PBS, CPB, and Ready to Learn.

Drawing inspiration from the popular PBS KIDS show Lyla in the Loop, the game facilitates caregiver-child bonding through activities centered on computational thinking, everyday literacy, executive function, social-emotional skills, and career exploration. The game is poised for national distribution and utilization this summer and into next year, fostering neighborly engagement and educational enrichment.

Throughout the course of our eight-year partnership with the Ready to Learn initiative, Nine PBS has supported more than 23,000 children and 21,000 caregivers and educators across our priority neighborhoods of North St. Louis City, North St. Louis County, and East St. Louis. The initiative ensures families residing in underserved communities have access to literacy resources.

Points of engagement include Storytime in the Commons, educator professional development, and Family and Community Learning Sessions. These Nine PBS learning opportunities for children and families incorporate a diverse range of video, print, and digital PBS media around favorite and familiar PBS characters.

Hands-on, playful learning strategies are used to boost children's curiosity, social-emotional skills, and school readiness. In each interaction, families experience new ways of learning that can be incorporated into their everyday lives and caregivers gain experience modeling activities that can advance learning.

Gods of Tennis

Framed through the world-famous Wimbledon tournament, revisit the golden age of tennis in this three-part series. Meet the heroes, including Arthur Ashe in episode one, who forever changed the sport and drove significant change away from the tennis courts as well. A 17-year-old Ashe moved to St. Louis to train in 1960 to escape segregation in Richmond, VA. He spent his senior year attending Sumner High School.

› Tuesdays, beginning July 23–August 6, 8 pm

Hotel Portofino, Season 3

When Cecil returns requesting a divorce, Bella must decide what her future holds. But when the Wall Street crash hits, Bella and Cecil lose everything. Desperation leads to dangerous actions in this sun-soaked 1920s Italian drama. The full season is available on Nine PBS Passport.

› Sundays, beginning July 28, 7 pm

Confluence

This new series explores the enduring and surprising connections between art, science, and technology. Storytellers at the height of their creative powers reveal the extent to which the arts and sciences combine to spark human creativity and help us understand the world and what it is to be human.

› Tuesdays, beginning July 23, 10 pm

Pullman and the Railroad Rebellion

In 1864, the powerful industrialist and engineer George Pullman brought luxury to overnight train travel with his revolutionary sleeping cars. Passengers were served by former slaves who became known as Pullman porters and maids. Pullman soon established a company town for employees on Chicago's South Side. The film recounts the bloody rebellion that followed as Pullman's workers fought for their independence.
