Dear Friends,

We are celebrating our 70th birthday on September 20, 2024!

Our visionary founders would be proud we are living their commitment to educational and civic engagement.

We are an essential community institution that is helping change the narrative of our great city and region. There are challenges, but there are many remarkable things happening, too (check out Living St. Louis for examples). And you don't want to miss our new podcast, Listen, St. Louis with Carol Daniel (ninepbs.org/listenstlouis) to hear in-depth conversations with Black and brown community members who share their thoughts on how we got here and what real change looks like.

Our great national programs tell important stories that connect us, including Henry Louis Gates's new docuseries, Gospel, our cover feature. Finding Your Roots with Henry Louis Gates, Jr., celebrates its tenth season in January and profiles the histories of three noncelebrity guests for the first time.

And it wouldn't be January without new seasons of Masterpiece: All Creatures Great and Small and Miss Scarlet and the Duke premiere on January 7. One of my favorites, American Experience, also returns January 23 for its 36th season!

As a member, you have access to Nine PBS Passport, where you can binge-watch entire new seasons and the full series run of some of our most popular shows. Join us at ninepbs.org/support.

I'm looking forward to an extraordinary 2024 with you.

Today in Chess Series Debuts

In partnership with Saint Louis Chess Club, this new monthly series highlights current events in chess, both in St. Louis and internationally. British correspondent Sharon Carpenter hosts the series from the Chess Club studio in St. Louis. The first episode introduces the programs, people, and places that made St. Louis the "Chess Capital of America."

➤ Premieres Monday, January 15 at 7:30 pm and continues with a new episode on February 12.

Finding Your Roots Celebrates 10th Anniversary

In the new 10th anniversary season of Finding Your Roots with Henry Louis Gates, Jr., 18 celebrities are joined by three noncelebrity guests in the final episode.

The acclaimed series uses DNA technology and genealogical detective work to help guests learn about their family's past, often answering decades-old questions, uncovering mysteries, telling stories of unknown ancestors, and sometimes altering a guest's life for the better.

Season 10 features actors Valerie Bertinelli, Danielle Brooks, LeVar Burton, Michael Douglas, Lena Dunham, Brendan Fraser, Tracy Morgan, Ed O'Neill, Bob Odenkirk, Anthony Ramos, Wes Studi, Jesse Williams; comedian Iliza Shlesinger; musicians Ciara, Sammy Hagar, Alanis Morissette, Dionne Warwick; and journalist Sunny Hostin.

Following requests from viewers, Season 10 features three noncelebrity guests who were chosen as part of a nationwide search in 2022 that garnered over 9,000 submissions from hopeful fans.

Series producers were looking for someone with a family mystery they hoped they could solve. Although the search initially was to find one lucky viewer, three dynamic guests were ultimately chosen.

"The 10th season of Finding Your Roots is not only a milestone for the show. It signifies the bond we share with PBS and our viewers to tell stories that explore the fullness and diversity of humanity through the personal tales of our guests and their ancestors," said Gates.

➤ Premieres Tuesday, January 2 at 7 pm

New PBS KIDS Series Lyla in the Loop

On February 5, PBS KIDS will debut Lyla in the Loop (pictured at right), a funny new animated series for kids ages 4-8. Lyla in the Loop follows Lyla, a 7-year-old girl, who lives in a big city with her close-knit family, fantastical blue sidekick, Stu, and a host of relatable and quirky characters in her community, who use creative and strategic problem-solving and critical thinking skills to address a range of everyday problems together. The new series is available in both English and Spanish.

The series pulls inspiration for its setting from Philadelphia, creator Dave Peth's home base, and includes vocals by students from the public school district of Philadelphia in the series theme song, composed and performed by Grammy-nominated musician, Divinity Roxx.

"Lyla is curious and resourceful, and when it comes to figuring out solutions to everyday problems, she doesn't give up, even when it takes several tries to get it right," said Sara DeWitt, senior vice president and general manager, PBS KIDS. "We know audiences will quickly be drawn to Lyla's determination and can-do attitude, and we're excited to introduce this warm, funny, and smart series to our viewers."

The Heavenly Sounds of Gospel

Bass guitarist Joshua Easley, Jr., performs "Total Praise" on the set of Gospel with The Belle Singers.

Gospel*, a new four-hour docuseries, brings gospel and secular artists together for an incredibly inspiring celebration. It explores the rich history of Black spirituality through sermons and songs. From Professor Henry Louis Gates, Jr., executive producer, host, and writer, the series airs February 12 and 13 on Nine PBS, with a special companion concert premiering on February 9. You can also stream it at ninepbs.org/live or on the PBS App.

From the blues to hip-hop, Black Americans have been the driving force behind innovative music for more than a century. Musical styles come and go, but one sound that has been a constant source of strength, courage, and wisdom on any given Sunday: the Gospel.

The sacred sounds of gospel music and Black preaching were the way Black Americans found their voice and power in a strange land, and resonated far beyond the church's walls, according to the series producers. By weaving intimate interviews, with dynamic live gospel performances, you will get to fully experience this uniquely Black American art form of prayer, praise, and promise.

In Gospel, Gates speaks with dozens of clergymen, singers, and scholars about their connection to the music that has transcended its origins and now spreads "the good word" all around the world. The series features interviews with notable names, including Dionne Warwick, U.S. Senator Raphael Warnock, Rev. Otis Moss III, Professor Michael Eric Dyson, and awe-inspiring musical performances of gospel favorites, like "Can't Nobody Do Me Like Jesus," "Total Praise," and others, from talents including The Belle Singers, Cory Henry, Celisse, and more.

Gospel is more than the soundtrack of the Black American experience, "it's the beating heart and soul," said Gates. PBS's Chief Programming Executive and General Manager, Sylvia Bugg, said, "Gospel celebrates a treasured genre of music that has influenced African American culture and communities, and we are excited for audiences to join Professor Gates on this joyous exploration into a very unique and ardent art form."

Throughout the series, Gospel looks at the history of Black religious music and preaching, showcasing the symbiotic relationship of words and song present in any Black church. It examines the origin of Black gospel music, which blended sacred spirituals with the blues tradition, and soared to new heights during the Great Migration.

Gospel music served as an outlet for the anger and frustration of living as a Black person in the U.S., which remains true today. The series also explores the evolution of preaching styles over time, and the impact of class, gender, cultural innovations, and consumer technologies in shaping the development of gospel since its conception.

Early Learners See the Benefits of Community Impact Work

Last year, the Nine PBS Community Impact Team continued to center its work on community needs, working with more than 150 partners in our priority neighborhoods of North St. Louis, North St. Louis County, and East St. Louis, with a lens of the highest need for the highest impact. Throughout 2023, we provided the following high-quality, impactful resources to educators, caregivers, and families.

Two Edcamp “unconference” professional development opportunities supported 174 attendees and impacted 2,600 early learners across both events. The October Edcamp was the first in the nation to welcome caregivers in addition to educators.

We hosted Storytime in the Commons in September (pictured at right). More than 400 community members gathered in the Jack Galmiche Public Media Commons to explore what it means to be a caring neighbor, interact with local community helpers like the St. Louis Fire Department, and meet beloved characters from PBS KIDS Daniel Tiger’s Neighborhood.

In response to community requests, we launched the Nine PBS Mental Well-Being Initiative, working with a network of trusted partners to support the day-to-day social, emotional, and cognitive needs of kids from infancy to eight, and the adults in their lives, through culturally relevant content and resources that promote healthy conversations. Through this initiative, we have created 28 stories and 86% of viewers agreed they gained a better understanding of what mental well-being means through our content (2023 Community Survey).

Nine PBS engaged more than 1,000 caregivers through 20 community activities, including PBS KIDS Work It Out Wombats! Family and Community Learning sessions, Power Hour Graduation at the Magic House, and the Family Fun Series at the Missouri History Museum.

Nine PBS revamped Teaching in Room 9 by producing the program in-studio using a professionally designed set, camera crew, and production team. Episodes now include special guests and virtual field trips to treasured regional landmarks. In 2023, Teaching in Room 9 was viewed on-air more than 243,000 times (Nielsen/TRAC Media Services, October 2023).

Building on the first four Drawn In comic books released in 2022, Nine PBS, in partnership with Lion Forge Entertainment, released four more comic books. Pre-k through third grade students at St. Louis Public Schools will receive each issue, impacting more than 5,200 early learners.

We implemented 160-plus Power Hour Sessions around literacy, STEM, and financial literacy, impacting more than 5,200 children in our priority neighborhoods.
