

The

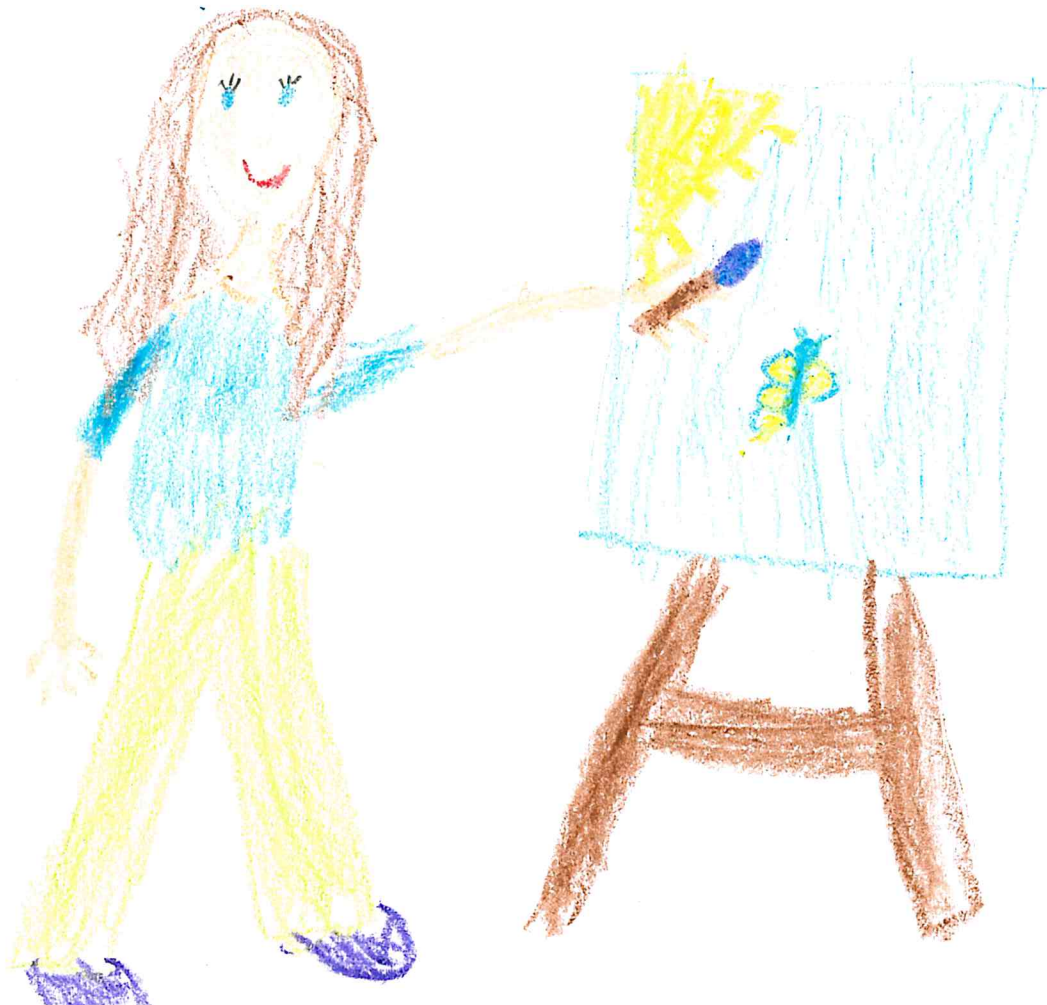

Beautiful

oops

Written and Illustrated By:
Gwendolyn Andrist 1st Grade

One day at art class, I began painting a butterfly. I was having fun and painting really fast when I realized I made a big mistake.

"Oh no! I put too many wings on my butterfly!" I exclaimed. "What should I do?" I raised my hand.

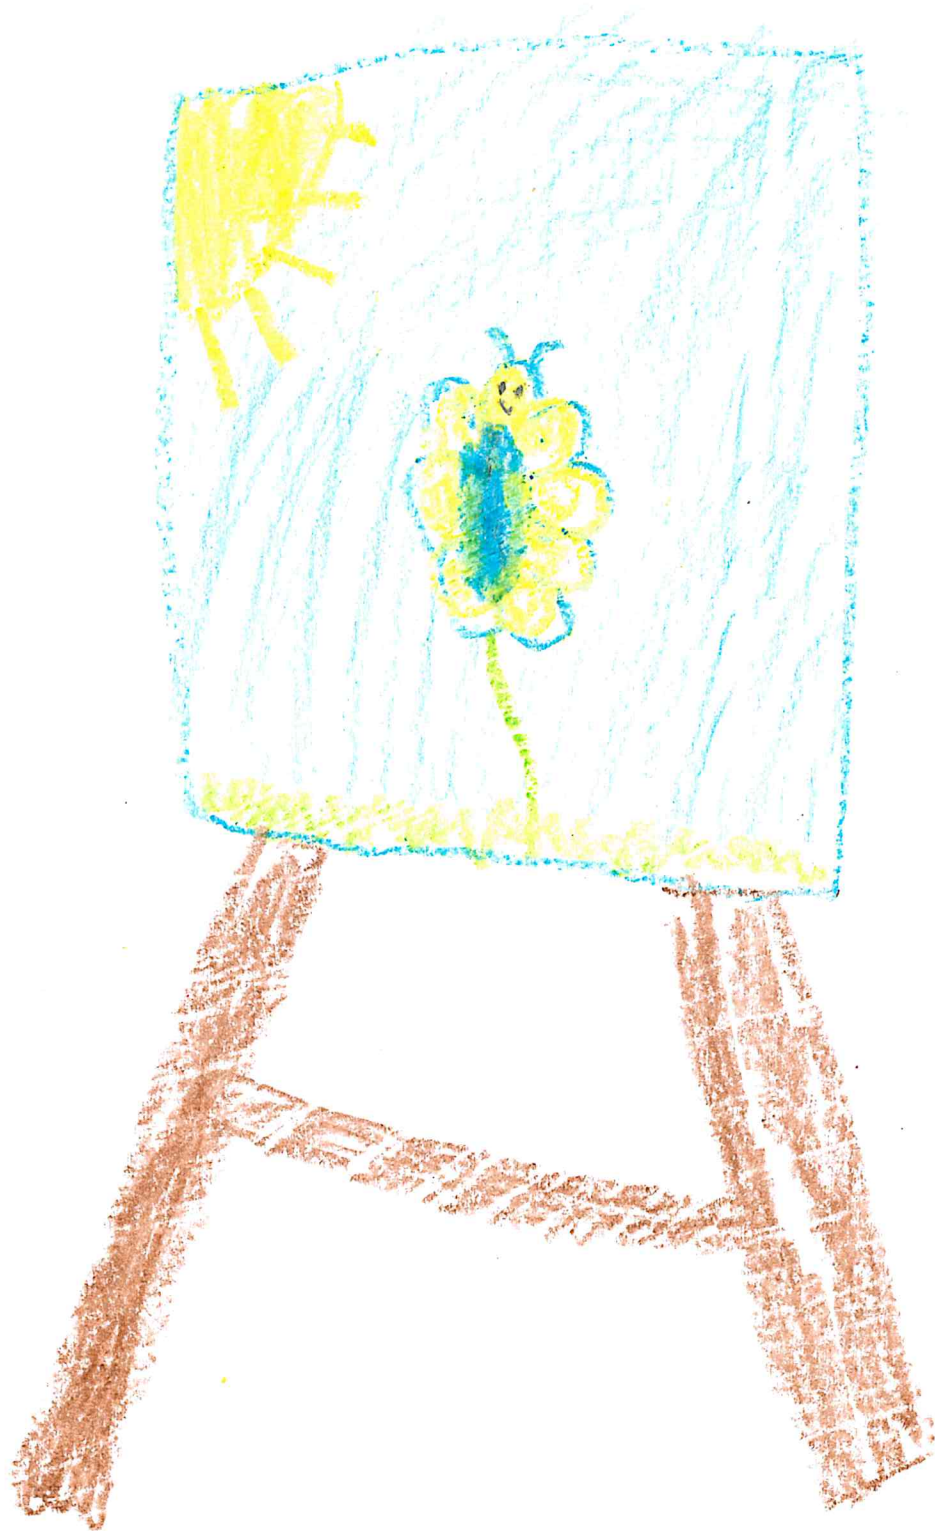

My art teacher came over to help and I told her what happened. She said "Make it into a beautiful oops."

"What does that mean?" I wondered to myself. Then I got an idea!

I turned my butterfly into a flower!

Now I knew what my art teacher meant. You can make your mistakes into something beautiful!

