

The Lost Puppies

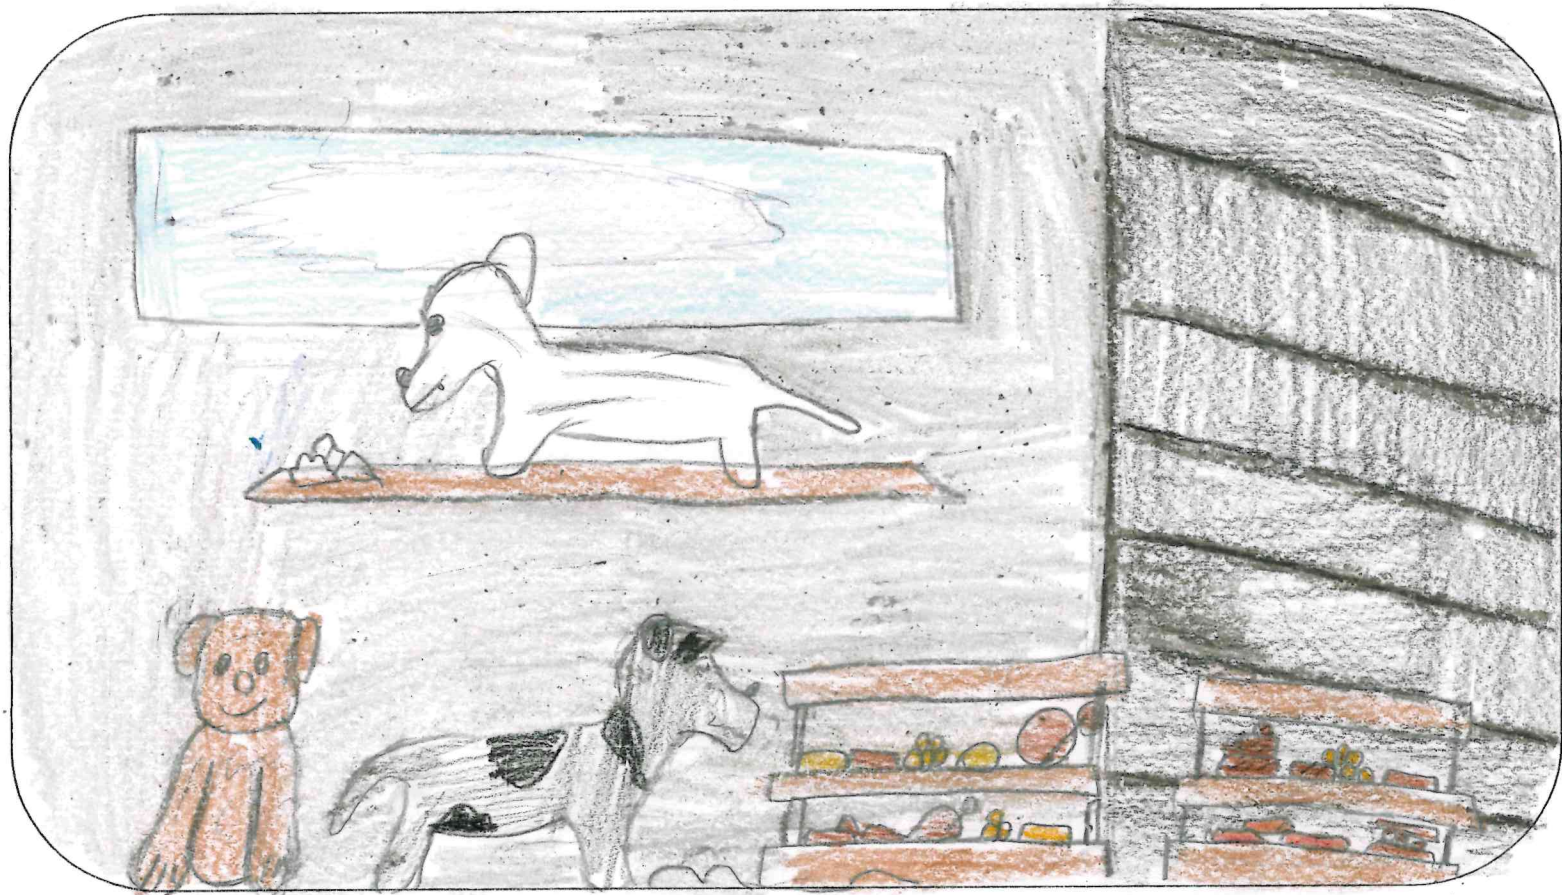

by: Joseph Sinchi

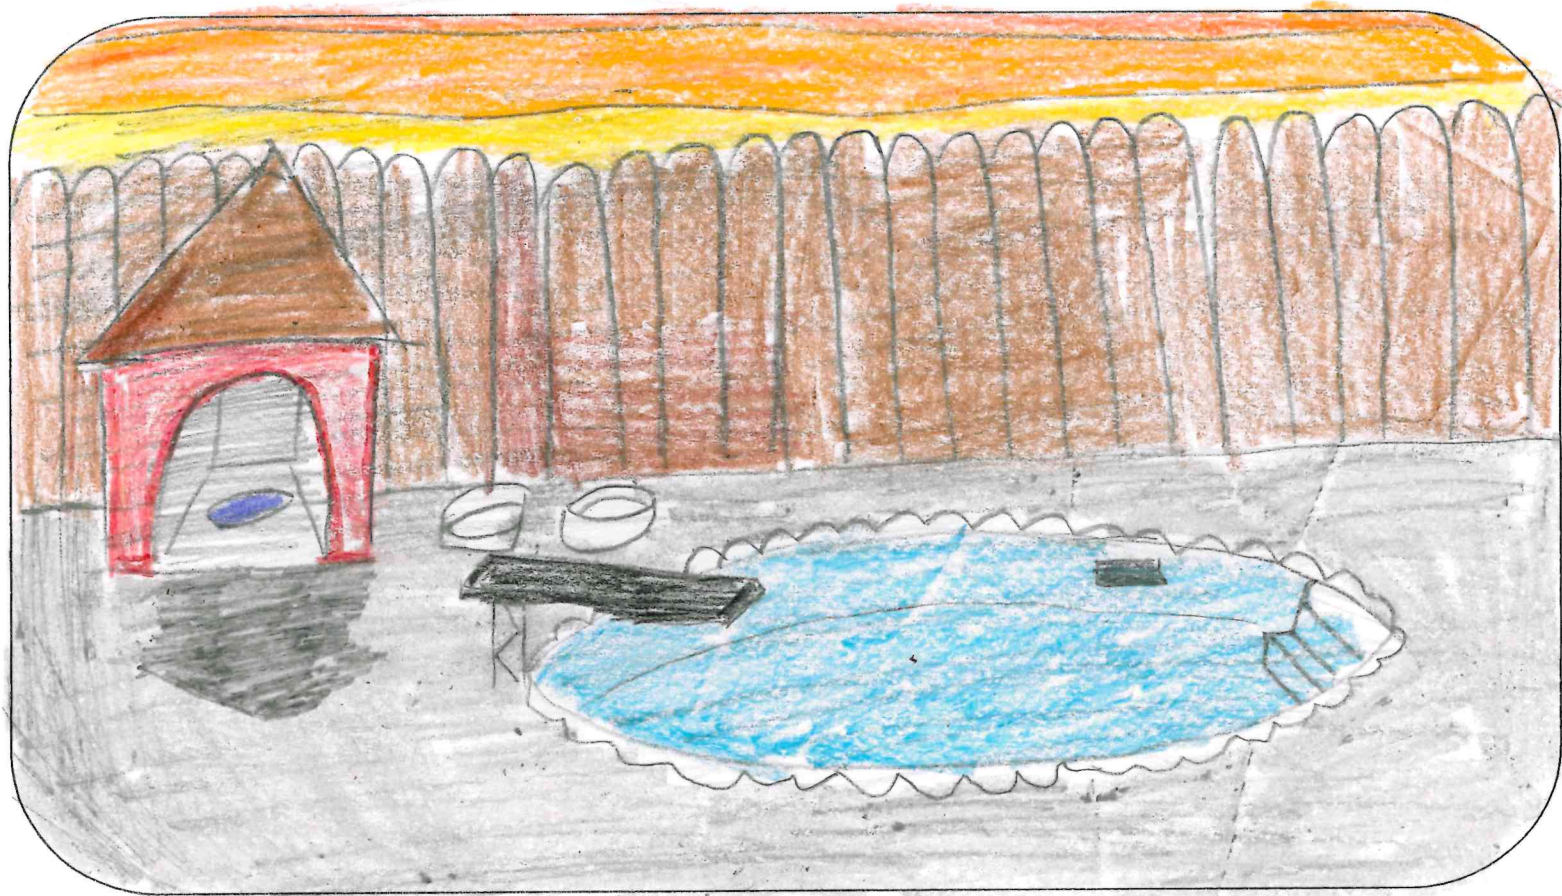

Once upon a time there were three little puppies. Their names were Jack, Max and Frostey. Jack was black and white, Max was brown, and Frostey was white. They all love to play ball.

one day they were busy chasing a ball.
The ball went over the sidewalk and onto the road. But puppies were still chasing the ball and a meat stopped at the side of the road.

Max, Jack and Frostey all jumped into the meat truck, but the truck took off. They started to eat as much as they could before they realized they were lost.

The owner went to go feed the little puppies but when he got there noticed that they were gone!

After many hours the puppies heard a familiar voice. They ran toward the voice and were united with their boy and quickly fell asleep. The End.
