

MIRROR, MIRROR ON THE WALL

Written & Illustrated by: Fiona S.

Hello, my name is Mark. You won't believe what I just saw. I was walking into my room, and my mirror spoke to me. It said, "Mirror, mirror on the wall." Then a portal appeared. I was scared and ran away. Two hours later I came back, and the portal was bigger. It filled my whole room. I jumped in!

It took me to a bunny town that was being bullied by mean creatures. First, there were talking pigs. These were not regular pigs; they were cuckoo pigs. They did knock-knock bursts, which exploded your house if you got their jokes wrong. I answered all their jokes correctly and won their Diamond Sword.

Next, I battled a giant Hay Monster. The Hay Monster was trying to poke me with his straw, but I defeated him with the Diamond Sword.

The way out of the portal was blocked by a huge, hairy monster. He grabbed, kicked and scratched me. I won the battle with a final punch, and he exploded.

The bunnies were so happy that they gave me carrot cake and a key to get home.

I freaked out when I noticed I saved the bunny world.
