

The Pink Dolphin of the Amazon

In the deep green forests
of the Amazon rainforest,
there lived a bright pink dolphin named Dahlia.

Dahlia swam in the winding water's of the Amazon River with her family. She love to jump high and splash her tail in the sun.

One day, Dahlia heard a baby bird crying near the riverbank. The bird had fallen from its nest. Dahlia gently pushed a floating leaf under the bird so it can rest.

She called on her animal friends for help. soon, a monkey carefully carried the baby bird back to it's nest on the tree.

Dahlia felt proud and happy. She learned that even a small dolphin can make a big difference.
