

REAL STORIES OF ADDICTION AND HOPE

Desiree was 12 years old when she first saw her father snorting ground-up pills. Soon she was a teenager using drugs to numb the pain of her experiences. Joe was diagnosed with mental illness as a child and was incarcerated at 13. He says drugs helped him feel something he otherwise could not. Real Stories of Addiction and Hope shares these firsthand accounts of addiction from the people themselves. Find out how addiction changed and affected their lives and those around them, when they first sought treatment, and how they've successfully remained clean. This program was produced in cooperation with Behavioral Health System Baltimore with additional support from Abrian Enterprises.
