Dave Scrivener

Head Writer and Senior
Executive Producer, MotorWeek
Content Division

Dave Scrivener is head writer and senior executive producer of Maryland Public Television's long-running national automotive series MotorWeek. He's been a member of the series' production team for 35 years.

Mr. Scrivener began his career at MPT in 1987 as a production intern and was hired as assistant producer of MotorWeek in March of 1988. Mr. Scrivener has remained with MotorWeek in a variety of roles throughout his career, and he currently serves as the senior executive producer in charge of special projects and head writer for the program.

He is directly responsible for production of the show's weekly car-care segments, numerous clean energy features and special programs, as well as final editorial content approval for each episode. Mr. Scrivener travels extensively worldwide to attend press functions and produce video shoots on behalf of the show and serves as a high-performance track and off-road driver for MotorWeek's road test features.

Mr. Scrivener holds a bachelor's degree in mass communication from Towson University and was the recipient of an Emmy Award as producer for WGN's live coverage of the 1998 Chicago Auto Show. He serves as a reviewer for the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) Vehicle Technologies Office annual merit review and has served as a judge for several DOE Advanced Vehicle Technology student competitions.

Mr. Scrivener served for eight years in the U.S. Army Reserve. He resides in Sparks, Maryland, and he is the father of twelve children and grandparent of six.
