Creating Lasting Connections

As CenterPiece winds down, I'm reminded of all the great things we've accomplished together. And while the magazine has come to an end, our mission to keep you connected to rich storytelling, trusted information and valuable resources remains strong as ever.

This year, we put a spotlight on the resilient communities of western North Carolina in the aftermath of Helene. And thanks to your support, we'll continue to connect all viewers to their inspiring stories in the coming year. To explore more, visit pbsnc.org/hurricane-helene.

Thoughtful conversations, thrilling performances and authentic local content have the power to connect people from all walks of life. That's why we're so proud of Black Issues Forum's landmark 40th season, our NC music series Shaped by Sound and A Sacred Thread, a film that follows the Snowbird Cherokee's fight to keep their language alive.

Because history lives on through the people, places and stories we tell, this year we kicked off Homegrown History, an ambitious initiative exploring our state's rich past. Through this project, we hope you'll deepen your connection to our state's fascinating history. We invite you to share your local history at pbsnc.org/ShareYourHistory.

You made all this amazing work possible. With your ongoing support, we'll continue to build community connections for generations to come. Thank you!

With gratitude,

David Crabtree, CEO & General Manager, PBS North Carolina
