Plant the Seed to Your Legacy

Fewer than half of Americans have an estate plan that establishes how their assets should be handled after their death. Many people intend to put together an estate plan but haven't made it a priority yet.

PBS North Carolina wants you to be well informed and prepared. As part of National Estate Planning Awareness Week, October 16–22, we're offering you a courtesy copy of Planning Your Legacy, an estate planning guide. Please take advantage of this free resource and plant the seed to a future that protects your loved ones and invests in the causes you care about.

Over the past year, we have distributed over 1,000 copies of this informative publication. PBS North Carolina supporters Beverly and Kenneth from Greensboro say it helped prepare them to meet with their attorney. Their new estate plan is now in place.

Laura, a PBS North Carolina Legacy Society member from Kernersville, found the guide's info on charitable bequests useful as it reminded her of what needs to be considered.

Plant the seed to your legacy by requesting your copy today at pbsnc.org/PlantTheSeed.

PLAN YOUR LEGACY TODAY

Get tips on tax savings, life insurance, distribution of personal property, remembering your beloved pets and so much more by requesting your free Planning Your Legacy guide at pbsnc.org/PlantTheSeed. Have questions about making PBS North Carolina a part of your estate plan? Visit pbsnclegacy.org.
