STEM Works: LionDragon Studio

Software engineers at LionDragon Studios work on a variety of projects creating, testing, and editing applications and games for all kinds of clients. Turning dreams and ideas into usable programs is what they do every day! Let's see what you could create if you were a software engineer!

What would your app or game do? What can people learn from it or use it for?

Use the blank space to draw what your app or game looks like. It could be on a phone, a computer, or even a TV and other smart appliances!
