My parents loved their Sierra Nevada property. But after they passed, my sister and I were arguing about what to do with the 1000 acres or so in the mountains. She wanted to sell but I couldn't bear to part with it – our parents got engaged under a Live Oak on that property. That's when Brandi stepped in with, of all things, an acorn collected from my parents' engagement tree. She also had a plan to sell the bulk of the property while retaining the small corner where the tree grows. My sister and I agreed. I still have that acorn too – it's a little thing that reminds me of the difference personal service makes.

ADALINE KENT

The Click of Authenticity

Born of a legendary family of early environmentalists, Adaline Kent was an energetic innovator whose love of the High Sierra can be traced in her abstract artworks that merge her interest in the natural world with a steadfast pursuit of authenticity.
