Leah Punchkin and Esther Dickenfields were dozing in their plant cat tower. Suddenly Esther remembered to wake up their last cat named Pierre Chicken.

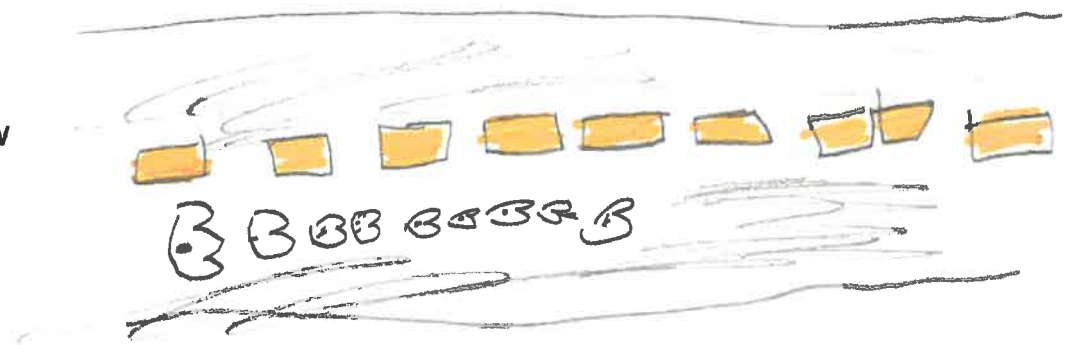

Esther Dickenfields ran up the stairs. As soon as she found Pierre Chicken's hammock, she saw that Pierre Chicken was gone!

Esther Dickenfields ran down the stairs to tell Leah Punchkin that Pierre Chicken was gone.

They ran out the door and found themselves on New York Street where Pierre had left paw prints.

They ran down to find more paw prints until they got stuck in a traffic jam and jumped onto the roof of a car.

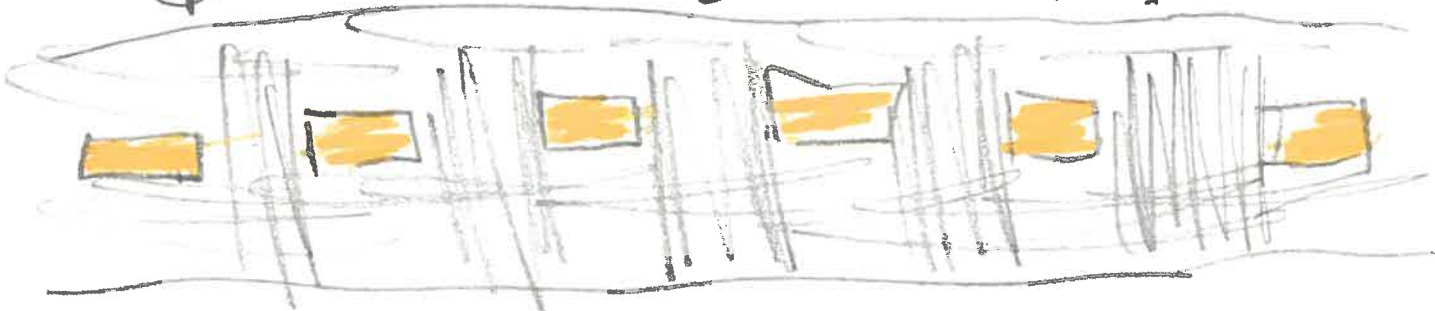

The car did not stop. They saw Pierre Chicken's pawprints again.

They found the right aisle that had cat food.

They left the store and went onto a green field. They found a gray fluffy body when they peeked into the brambly bushes.

They used a mini jet pack to get over the brambles.
There they found Pierre Chicken.

They left their extra food for a dog.

They flew back to Buffalo on a plane.
