

Fire on the Moon

by Vivian [REDACTED]

Firefighter Vivi wanted to go to the moon one day. She said "I don't have any space clothes." She decided to use her fire gear instead. She built a rocket and blasted off.

It took twenty-one days to get to the moon. Firefighter Vivi was exhausted. By the time she got to the moon she was fast asleep. She landed on the moon with a thud so hard that it woke her up, but the thud started a fire on the moon!

Since there is no gravity on the moon, the fire floated above the moon. Luckily Vivi had her fire extinguisher with her and she put out the fire. There was another fire that had been there ever since Neil Armstrong set foot on the moon. Vivi put out that one too.

Vivi was so tired that she lingered on the moon.

She slowly walked to the rocket ship and pushed the buttons and counted. The rocket blasted off again.

The rocket ship was able to go by itself so she didn't even bother staying awake. She was still tired from fighting the floating fires. The rocket ship landed back at Vivi's house. Vivi was so happy.
