

Arthur and George
by Francesca S

Once upon a time, there was someone named George Allen and Arthur House.

Arthur and George are going to have a wedding.

While at home planning their wedding, someone knocked at the door. knock knock knock

It was George's friend Miss Alien. Arthur answered the door.

Miss Alien asked, "Would you like to come and dance with me?"
Arthur replied, "No".

George came into the room and said, "What is all this fuss about?
Miss Alien, what are you doing here?"

"I came to ask Arthur, would you like to dance?"

"What did Arthur reply?" "He replied, 'No'".

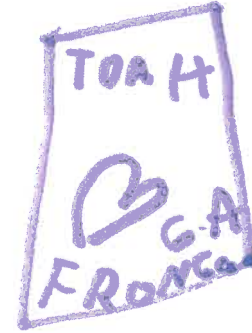

"Arthur, why did you reply no?"

"I don't like dancing."

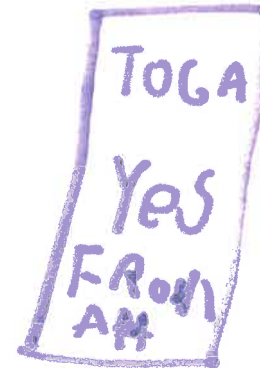

Since George loves dancing and would want dancing at their wedding, he called off the wedding.

Arthur and George write notes to each other while they are broken up.

And one of their notes says "Arthur maybe we should get married."

Arthur replies to George, "Yes, maybe we should get married."

So they go back to living in the same house. Then they think about what they are going to have for the wedding, like a cake, and flowers.

So then they get married.

